

London Heads invited to don their sequins to raise funds for charity icandance

More House School in Knightsbridge and St Paul's Cathedral School have joined forces and recently launched the London Heads' Dance Society. Heads are invited to don their sequins to dazzle on the dance floor in a Strictly Heads event in June 2022. The dance sessions will be taught by a fantastic team of professional coaches from Dakota's Dance Academy with the classes taking place at More House.

The initiative is raising funds for the London-based charity icandance who give children and young people with disabilities the chance to dance. What better way to enhance your own wellbeing, whilst supporting a fantastic cause and bringing publicity to your school all at once!

Faith Hagerty, Head of More House, and organiser of the event said: "Our role as Headteachers is to ensure ALL children have a chance to thrive. We are putting our dignity to one side for one evening because we feel strongly that icandance is a vital resource for young people."

Simon Larter – Evans, ex-dancer and Head of St Paul's Cathedral School, also collaborating on the project said "I am thrilled to be dancing again for such a wonderful cause. We need lots of Heads to get involved and raise essential funds for this fantastic cause."

They are delighted to announce that they currently have the following schools taking part; Dolphin School, St Margaret's School, Halliford School, Sydenham High School, St Paul's Cathedral School, Prince's Gardens Prep, Wandsworth Prep, St Augustine's Priory, Oratory Primary School, Thomas's Kensington, Lochinver House, Maltmans Green, Channing, Maida Vale School, Paddock Wood, Willington Prep, Ibstock Place and Francis Holland Sloane Square. ■
